GEF PRIVATE SECTOR ENGAGEMENT ANNUAL REPORT

1. The GEF Private Sector Engagement Strategy¹ (PSES) (GEF/C.59/07/Rev.01) was approved at the 59th GEF Council Meeting. The PSES includes the reporting framework which specifies the metrics to be used for the purpose of annual reporting to the GEF Council to assess the effectiveness of private sector engagement:

- (a) The number of companies formally engaged in GEF activities (in the process of design, planning meetings, information shared, implementation, technical assistance etc., according to the modality);
- (b) A classification of companies based on the GICS industry code at the level of the industry sector;
- (c) An assessment of the geographies where the private sector engagement has been most effective and least successful;
- (d) The number of multi-stakeholder platforms engaged, their geographic coverage and share of the global market; and
- (e) An appendix of all companies contacted during the period.

2. This annual report covers all projects from the GEF-7 and GEF-8 cycle, at the CEO approval stage from the period October 10, 2023 to November 6, 2024, including from the SCCF/LDCF, the SGP, MSPs, the Global Biodiversity Framework Fund and the GEF Trust Fund. This report does not include the NGI window which is covered in a separate report.

3. The total number of projects assessed is 138. The project portfolio sample size and composition for the annual report reflects the current stage of the GEF project cycle at the beginning of GEF-8 and prior to the CEO approval of many country or integrated program child projects. The portfolio includes a large number of enabling activities, capacity building and transparency projects which have a national government focus and less of an emphasis on working directly with the private sector.

4. Private sector entities from the 138 projects were classified according to the 11 sector classifications of the Global Industry Classification Standard Methodology (GICS):

1. Energy
2. Materials
3. Industrials
4. Consumer Discretionary
5. Consumer Staples
6. Health Care
7. Financials

¹ The GEF Private Sector Engagement Strategy GEF/C.59/07/Rev.01

8. Information Technology
9. Communication Services
10. Utilities
11. Real Estate

5. Each private sector entity was further classified using a typology according to scale, assets, number of employees and geography. For consistency with IEO Evaluations, the same classifications for private sector entities were adopted, with the addition of two classifications to differentiate between small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs) using the IFC definitions²:

- (a) Small enterprises
- (b) Medium-sized enterprises
- (c) Cooperatives
- (d) National corporations
- (e) State-owned / partially state-owned corporations
- (f) National trade and professional organizations
- (g) National chambers of commerce and industry
- (h) Multinational corporations
- (i) Private Foundations

6. The main findings of the report are:

- (a) The total number of private sector entities engaged in GEF-7 and GEF-8 projects during the PSES annual reporting period (October 10, 2023 to November 6, 2024) at the CEO endorsement stage is 493 (full list Appendix A)
- (b) During this period, GEF project investment was $973,833,414 with the amount of private sector co-finance $ 176,264,990 across the 138 projects from a total co-finance amount of $3,509,774,657 (total from all sources)
- (c) The modal classification of industry type is national trade and professional organizations (N=117), followed by national companies (N=87) and state-owned companies (N=71)
- (d) The modal GICS industry sector is consumer staples (N=86), followed by industrial (N=84) and materials (N=70) companies

Table 1 below shows the distribution of the 493 private sector entities according to typology:

Organization Classification	Number
National trade and professional organizations	117
National corporations	87
State-owned / partially state-owned corporations	71
Medium sized enterprises	62
Small-scale enterprises	59
National chambers of commerce and industry	38
Multinational corporations	34
Cooperatives	18
Private Foundations	7

ENGAGEMENT WITH MULTISTAKEHOLDER PLATFORMS

7. A core element of GEF's PSES is the engagement of multistakeholder platforms to provide the scale and resources needed for transformational impact at the system level and beyond the country level projects.

8. The total number of multi-stakeholder platforms engaged in the 138 projects is 18 (Appendix B).

9. The global platforms represented in the project range include those with the largest memberships, revenue and market coverage for any given sector. These include:

- (a) CDP runs the global disclosure system for investors, companies, cities, states and regions to manage their environmental impacts. For over two decades, CDP has been the gold standard of environmental disclosure and reporting, with the most comprehensive dataset on corporate and city action

- (b) The Alliance to End Plastic Waste with 72 members across the plastics value chain including brand owners, resin producers, converters, waste managers, recyclers and technology providers
- (c) World Cocoa Foundation which has a membership representing over 80 percent of the world's chocolate and cocoa sector
- (d) IDH which brings together over 600 companies and governments and reaching over 4 million farmers in 30 countries
- (e) The Fashion Pact is the largest CEO-led initiative for sustainability in the fashion industry with over 160 brands representing a third of global fashion production by volume. Fashion Pact members must be committed to a nature-positive, net-zero future for the fashion sector.
- (f) The World Business Council for Sustainable Development, with over 220 members, USD 18.5 trillion in combined revenues and over 19 million employees. The WBCSD is engaged across a number of GEF's key Impact and Integrated Programs, notably the FOLUR and Food Systems IPs, the Sustainable Cities IP and the LDCF/SCCF

ENGAGEMENT WITH WOMEN'S PRIVATE SECTOR NETWORKS

10. The engagement of women through women's businesses and private sector networks is a valuable contribution in the GEF's goals for gender equity and the active inclusion of women through the GEF portfolio.

11. There continues to be a significant number (n=8) of women's private sector networks, cooperatives and associations engaged in GEF projects during the reporting period. There was representation from diverse range of organizations and geographies (full list in Appendix C), including:

- (a) Association of Zambian Women in Mining (AZWIM)
- (b) OPEIF Afrique (Organization for the Promotion of Women's Industrial Entrepreneurship in Africa)
- (c) Rural Women Association of Kazakhstan
- (d) Women in Sustainable Development of Moldova (WISDOM)

FINDINGS

12. The main GICS industry sectors represented in the portfolio were consumer staples, industrial and materials companies, reflecting the national focus in the project portfolio on major GHG emitting sectors in mining, metals, cement and primary production. Similarly, the main classifications of company type were national level businesses and state-owned enterprises that represent those companies most likely to be engaged in these sectors or at the level of national consultation and data sharing.

13. As the number of integrated projects and child projects reach CEO approval stage, we can anticipate a larger number of SMEs, multinational and financial sector companies to be engaged as the project focus shifts to on-the-ground projects and those initiatives that have private sector central to the project design and objectives.

14. The new Global Biodiversity Framework Fund project portfolio has four projects at the CEO approval stage, with limited private sector engagement at this early juncture due to the predominant project types that focus on critical habitats and protected areas which have little scope for private sector engagement. The GBFF projects could offer co-financing opportunities with the private sector and philanthropic organizations as the range of project types and geographies widens over time.

15. The 138 projects that reached the CEO approval stage in this reporting period were largely from the early GEF-8 cycle and included a large number of enabling activities at the country level (N=30). While most of these projects have limited scope for private sector engagement, many enabling activities were able to engage the private sector extensively, mainly consulting on sectoral GHG inventories, measurement and reporting activities related to climate change.
